Places to Eat

Chaophraya

“Award winning boutique hostel”

Specialising in the finest Thai food and offering unrivalled levels of service in a luxurious setting, we opened our second Chaophraya restaurant in Manchester in November 2006.

With a 120 cover a-la-carte restaurant and a 200 capacity bar we offer a welcoming and relaxed approach to modern eating, with quality food served with a refreshingly genuine smile.

Perfect for any occasion, from a quick lunch to an evening meal, at Chaophraya Manchester, you can relax in true Thai style.

To make your visit that little bit different, we have our own, authentic Tuk Tuk to transport you to and from our restaurant.

The Modern

"Bar and Restaurant"

The Modern is a sleek and sophisticated drinking and dining experience located at the top of one of Manchester's most iconic buildings, Urbis. Situated on floors 5 and 6, the Modern enjoys a level of elevation, tranquillity and peace, presenting stunning panoramic views of the city skyline. The restaurant has the capacity to seat 60 diners and serves regional dishes, presented seasonally, making the best use of local suppliers and producers. Head chef Paul Falkner has put together an exemplary menu, operating a back to basics approach with a modern sensibility, focusing on Northern roots and the cooking techniques of Northern England.

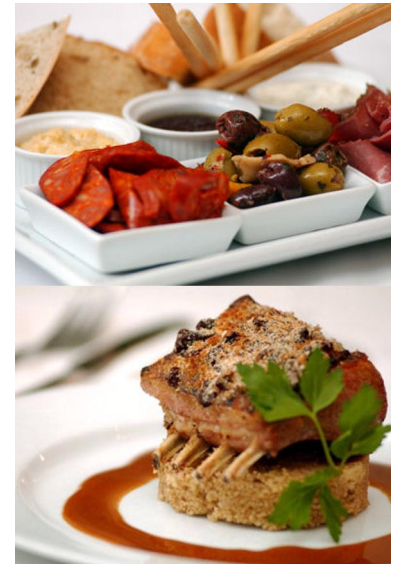

The Modern endeavour to only serve the best produce, locally sourced where possible and presented seasonally. All their meat is selected for its traceability and regional provenance, showing belief in their suppliers and the farming techniques they practice.

Ithaca

"Restaurant Bar and Lounge"

Ithaca is a fine dining restaurant serving the very best modern Japanese cuisine in beautiful surroundings. The dining experience is an eclectic mix of South-East Asian culinary delights, put together by a team of the world's finest Pan-Asian and Japanese Chefs.

This stunning four-storey gastrodome took over two years to create, at a cost of more than £4 million. The restaurant, situated on the ground and first floors, is exquisitely decorated in lush dark hues, and features sharp lines and slick finishing. Ithaca is ideally located close to Manchester Town Hall, The Bridgewater Hall, Royal Exchange Theatre, Opera House, MEN Arena and the main business and shopping districts. Spectacular mirrored chandeliers and luxurious furnishings combine to conjure a sense of comfort and sophistication. But don't be distracted by the opulent décor, the real stars of the show here are the food and drink.

Leoni's Latin Cellar

"Restaurant Bar and Lounge"

Located just around the corner from the Town Hall and Albert Square, Leoni's is one of the oldest traditional Italian family run restaurants in Manchester. Now under Chilean ownership, there is a broad selection of Latin American dishes to complement the popular Italian menu.

Accompanied by a fine selection of wines from the new world, Leoni's aim to offer guests a different spectrum of Latin American cuisine alongside old Italian favourites. With the Royal Exchange Theatre only a stone's throw away and The Bridgewater Hall also close by, the pre-theatre offers at Leoni's are certainly inviting. If you want to celebrate a special occasion with family and friends in a great atmosphere then Leoni's is the place for you, with a choice of tapas, a la carte and party menus.

Hard Rock Cafe

"American and Cajun"

It's hard to believe that the legend, which is the Hard Rock Cafe, only began in London during the seventies. It seems that it has been part of the fabric of the restaurant scene forever. It just goes to show how many satisfied customers have come in and out of its doors over the years, relishing the all-American experience it provides. The Manchester cafe in the heart of the city centre is the largest Hard Rock in the UK, situated in The Printworks, which is Europe's first urban entertainment centre. And if rock is your thing, you will feel right at home here. Hard Rock Cafe Manchester has something for everyone! It has an awe-inspiring collection of authentic music memorabilia, with priceless pieces from The Beatles, Pearl Jam and Jimi Hendrix plus Mancunian greats such as Simply Red, Oasis, The Smiths, Stone Roses, Happy Mondays and Herman's Hermits gracing the cafe walls, along with more recent additions including stage costumes worn by Madonna and Tina Turner.

Sanam

"Sweet House & Restaurant"

The Sanam Sweet House and Restaurant has undoubtedly stood the test of time, in that it has stayed at the very top of it's game for over 40 years within the family who created it. It was the very first Restaurant to open the World Famous "Curry Mile" under the name of Café Sanam, and has grown from strength to strength in producing high quality traditional Pakistani Cuisine. Over 75% of it's customers are Asians who return week in and week out, all of which come to expect the finest and freshest of ingredients in exquisite dishes from all over the sub continent. They can cater for up to 300 for Weddings, Functions and Special events. Another speciality is outside catering. If you have not been in the last 40 years, now is the time to go, and if you have you will no doubt keep coming back as it is Simply the best!

Lal Haweli

"Sweet House & Restaurant"

Haweli is a magnificent summer house or part of the residence in the palace complex for the ruler of India and Pakistan. The area is full of mystery and colour and it was an age of elegance, it was also an age of grand dinners where Khansamas or expert cooks would produce an astonishing variety of traditional Indian dishes.

The resulting fusion of customs, lifestyles, cuisines and traditions gives Lal Haweli its distinct, unparalleled style and character.

King Cobra

"Sweet House & Restaurant"

It is the one and only restaurant in North Manchester that offers sri-lankan cuisine as well as traditional Indian food.

The King Cobra Indian restaraunt really does stand out amongst many of the restaraunts on the 'Curry Mile'(Wilmslow Rd). I discovered this restaurant only recently through a friends recommendation. After sampling many of the Indian restarants in the area and coming away feeling that I had been served indian ready meals from the microwave, I was about to give up. The food tasted fresh and was extremely tasty and the traditionally dressed Sri Lankan waiters were always happy and ready to help. I came away knowing most of the staff by name and an eagerness to be sat on a beach in Sri Lanka.

Darbar Restaurant

"Indian Restaurant"

The Darbar means Kings Court, the Darbar was used for his peoples daily needs and also for them to pay their respects to the King. Nobody would leave the Darbar without having a magnificent meal with the King.

The Darbar was lavishly decorated and furnished to the highest standard, for the comfort of his people.

We have tried to create the same standard and cuisine. Having traveled India and Pakistan collecting delicious recipes and having furniture especially commissioned and imported for your pleasure and enjoyment.

Jaffa Halal Mediterranean "Restaurant"

The Curry Mile in Manchester is world famous thanks largely to the sheer number of bright neon-lit (mainly Pakistani) restaurants and take aways, rather than the quality of its cuisine. Located along Wilmslow Road in Rusholme, just 2 miles south of the city centre, the area comes to life late at night with many restaurants staying open until 3 or 4am (even later on busy nights). With a mixture of award-winning restaurants and fast food curry houses, The Curry Mile is the ideal place to start or end your evening. It's claimed there are over 70 Asian takeaways and restaurants in Rusholme in less than a mile stretch. There's a massive choice of Indian, Pakistani, Bangladeshi and Perisan restaurants with the late night openings making them particularly popular with students and party goers.

Teppanyaki "Restaurant"

Phetpailin opened in April 2006 bringing a traditional and authentic Thai dining experience to Manchester's Chinatown. While the a la carte menu here is standard 'Anglo-Thai' cuisine, the specials board offers traditional Thai dishes prepared as they would be in Thailand. And the result is that a very healthy 60% of the clientele here are Thais, which is always a good sign for an ethnic restaurant. The décor is both traditional and minimalist with none of the clutter that can sometimes take over a restaurant. And it's very much a relaxed vibe, with light background music making for a peaceful and calming dining experience. Phetpailin (literally, 'sapphire') is currently unlicensed and they operate a BYO policy on alcoholic drinks. There is also a takeaway service (10% off when you spend more than £10) and an outside catering service.

Pacific Thai

"Chinese Restaurant"

The Pacific Restaurant is one of the most popular and modern restaurants in Manchester's Chinatown. Three-times High Life Oriental Restaurant of the Year and voted City Life's Restaurant of the Year in 1999, it provides very high quality Chinese and Thai food in a fresh and modern environment. Dining in this beautiful restaurant will give you a truly memorable taste of the Orient.

The Pacific restaurant is one of the most well recognised of the growing list of Chinese restaurants in Manchester's Chinatown. Offering alternatives to commonplace Cantonese cuisine, the restaurant boasts two dining areas dedicated to both Thai and Chinese cuisine. Each section is headed up by top chefs from that country, which is why we are not surprised the restaurant is a big favourite in the Chinese community as well as with business-types.

Koh Samui

"Thai Restaurant"

We opened our doors to Manchester diners in May 1999 and have served consistently high-quality Thai food ever since. Our menu combines dishes from the central and southern regions, and as you might expect from a restaurant named after one of Thailand's most beautiful islands, we specialize in fish and seafood.

Koh Samui is situated just outside Chinatown at sub-basement level on Princess Street. The restaurant is spacious and airy with a colonial feel complemented by Thai artefacts. Here at Koh Samui we cater for all types of customer and our Thai staff will be on hand to help the uninitiated savour the delights of Thai cuisine.

Pacific China

"Chinese Restaurant"

Manchester Chinatown lies in the very heart of the city, focused around Faulkner Street just behind the town hall. The area boasts superb restaurants, Oriental supermarkets, Chinese medicine shops and casinos.

It wasn't until the 1940s that the Chinese started to arrive in great numbers in Manchester, with the first Chinese restaurant being the Ping Hong in Mosley Street, opening in 1948.

By 1960 sixteen more restaurants were open and the boom continued well into the '60s and '70s. In 1962 the Willow Garden opened with a capacity of 600, followed later by Kwok Man (1972), Charlie Chan's (1973), the Woo Sang (1976) and probably the most famous Chinese restaurant in Europe, the Yang Sing (1978).

Try Thai "Thai Restaurant"

Try Thai is a modern and vibrant Thai restaurant located in the heart of Manchester Chinatown.

Famously being voted as one of the top spots of Manchester's most favourite Thai restaurants, Try Thai has decided to open its doors to a newly refurbished 1st floor expansion.

The new space is luxurious and elegant, featuring high Victorian ceilings accented by rich velvet full length curtains. Also a new Thai style canopy bar with separate bar seating, accompanied by Try Thai's brand new extensive cocktail list. The new edition now allows the restaurant further seating capacity, including a private room, perfect for large groups of friends and family or corporate bookings.
