Training the Clinical Anatomy Trainer Level 1:
A Doctors Academy Event
Garrod Building, Whitechapel, London

Sunday 29th September 2013

Taught by surgeons, this 'Clinical Anatomy Trainer Level 1' course is intended to provide attendees with a sound understanding of applied clinical anatomy pertinent to senior medical students and foundation doctors. The course will be predominantly delivered through surface anatomy demonstration as applied to trauma, assessment of nerve injuries, surgical incisions, and the anatomy encountered during common operative procedures. The interactive focus-group workshops will cover the fundamental principles of local and regional anaesthetics, essential concepts in wound healing, & an overview of sutures and suture materials. Successful completion of the course will require the attendee obtaining 70% marks in the above areas, which will be formally assessed in the form of spotters, OSCE and viva-voce. It is intended that on completion of this course the attendee will have sufficient knowledge and understanding to teach their juniors in a formal manner.

A teaching certificate will be provided to validate this.

Registration: £25. Limited number of places and will be offered on a first-come first served basis.
