Glasgow University Obstetrics and Gynaecology Society Undergraduate Conference 2019

The morning session included practical workshops covering key skills and clinical scenarios. In the afternoon, there were a number of speakers covering contemporary topics of interest in the field.

The main speaker was Mr Adam Kay, bestselling and award winning author of "This is Going to Hurt", who discussed his experiences as a trainee in Obstetrics and Gynaecology. This conference also provided a great opportunity for students at all stages to expand their understanding of Obstetrics and Gynaecology as a career, and to improve in key clinical skills. Certificates were provided to all attendees.

There was also the opportunity for students to present an abstract, where a prize was awarded for the best poster presentation.
